JAMES WINS OFFICE IN COUNTY SURVEYOR RACE

Heavy Vote Polled in General Election Tuesday; Rolph Carries County by Unusually Large Majority; Sunday Law, Daylight Saving Lose

The general election, contrary to general expectations, received quite a heavy vote, considering the small number of contests in this county. The interest attached to a number of the proposed amendments is thought to have been the cause of the large poll of votes Tuesday. The returns show that voters cast 21588 ballots out of a county registration of 33,243.

James Wins Contest

In the county's only contest, that for the office of county surveyor, James S. James, former city engineer of Burlingame, was winner over the incumbent, George Kneese. James is conceeded a lead of 2250 over his opponent. The results of this race in the various townships of the county were:

1st Township
James, 3806; Kneese 3743.
2nd Township
James 4068; Kneese 3218.
3rd Township
James 3575; Kneese 2232.
4th Township
James 310; Kneese 354.
5th Township
James 161; Kneese 118.

This was one of the most hotly contested fights in the primary election, at that time being a three-cornered fight between James, Kneese and Willis Frost. Kneese was the high man at the primary election, with James a close second. All three men secured a large vote at the primary, and the results were quite close. In the general election, however, a large proportion of the Frost vote, appears to have been won by James.

In the gubernatorial contest in this county James Rolph, Jr. was a strong winner. Rolph's vote was 18,403. M. K. Young received 2339 and Upton Sinclair 736 votes.

In the contest for lieutenant governor Merriam, the republican candidate, was a decisive winner over Walsh, the democratic nominee. Merriam's vote was 13,639. That for Walsh was 6137.

The vote in this county for some of the more important amendments showed the following results:

1.—Veterans' Bonds Act, Yes 13,594, No. 3331.
2.—State Taxes to Firemen's Fund Yes 3293, No. 12674.
3.—Compensation State Officers, Yes 5167, No. 9680.
4.—Taxation Street Railways, Yes 10568, No. 4694.
5.—State Employes Retirement, Yes 10887, No. 5927.
7.—Daylight Saving Act, Yes 7909, No. 12403.
9.—S. F. Harbor Band Act, Yes 13853, No. 1995.
11.—Fish and Game, Yes 5784, No. 10287.
26.—Sunday Closing Law, Yes 1823, No. 17825.

JAMES S. JAMES THANKS VOTERS OF S. M. COUNTY

The result of the surveyor's race in Tuesday's election seems to me to be a fine compliment to the hundreds of voluntary workers all over San Mateo county, who so generously donated their time and efforts in behalf of my candidacy.

On my part, I wish at this time to renew the same pledge of policy made all through the campaign. I expect a busy four years in reorganizing and administering the office of County Surveyor for the advancement of San Mateo County as a whole and for the benefit of its citizens and taxpayers.

"Mr. James will find me always ready to co-operate with him in the intersts of San Mateo county."

Man Sentenced For Contempt by Judge

To call a person a liar in court is a very serious offense, at least Mr. Angelo Delisi thinks so. He was a defendant in a divorce suit brought by his wife, Lena. The case was being tried before Judge Buck yesterday when Delisi called the corroborating witness a liar after she had declared on the stand that the defendant in 1929 struck his wife at a dinner in presence of the witness. Delisi sprang to his feet and in a loud and threatening manner called the witness the vile name. The judge at once declared him in contempt of court and directed the bailiff to confine him in the county jail for a period of twenty-four hours. Angelo, who comes from the land of Mussolini meekly went to the bastile, to calm his temper and reflect upon the seriousness of his offense. Mrs. Delisi was granted the decree.

Lighted Star To Teach Safety At Cement Plant

Local Plant Nears End Of Second Year Without A Serious Accident

A five pointed star has been erected on the roof of the stock-house at the plant of the Pacific Portland Cement Company here this week. The star contains a red light for every day remaining in the present calender year, and will be lighted every night. As each day passes without a loss time accident to any employee of the plant, a green light will be installed in the place of one of the red ones.

The star is to remind the workmen that they are nearing the end of their second year without a single loss time accident. The Portland Cement Association of which the Pacific Portland Cement Company is a member, is one of the leading organizations in the United States in the promotion of safety work. The work of the men in a cement plant, at one time considered a very hazardous employment, has been improved in condition to such an extent that some plants in the association have been run for three and four years without a single accident serious enough to require a loss of time on the part of the employee.

The local plant was recently presented with a handsome trophy by the Portland Cement Association for the completion of a calander year without an accident. The plant is now nearing its second consecutive year without such an accident.

First Meridian Post Recovered

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (UP)—What is believed to be the first meridian post war ever set up in the United States lies hidden from the eys of sightseers behind a little clump of foliage near the base of the Washington Monument.

It was established in 1793 by George Washington. He planned the position of the White House so the meridian line would run directly through the center, the post has been lost, recovered again, and is now almost completely forgotten.

Although it used to be tall, the post now rises but a foot over the ground. It is obscured from view by a group of small trees.

The meridian was set up in 1804 in the presence of President and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson. According to tradition. Mrs. Jefferson gave her thimble to be placed into the foundation

During the building of the Washington Monument the stone was used as a bench mark to determine and compare the levels of the monument.

A line drawn from the center of the White House and Capitol would intersect in the middle of the old Jefferson meridian.

Wm. H. Talbot, Well-Known Lumber Man, Was Former Resident Here

William H. Talbot, millionaire lumberman of San Francisco and the peninsula, died at his home in Hillsborough Wednesday at the age of 72. Talbot was one of the best known men in the lumber trade, and was for many years the president of the Pope-Talbot Lumber Company of San Fracisco.

Many years ago Talbot and his family came to Redwood City, and purchased the Hopkins property, now the site of the Sequoia Union high school. It was his interest in trees and lumber production, and a show spots of the peninsula, and desire to have a specimen of every known variety of tree which resulted in his estate becoming one of the show spots of the ueninsula, and which gave to the grounds of the high school a heritage in beauty and interest rarely equaled in a high school or college.

William H. Talbot spent his youth here, and is remembered by many of the old timers of Redwood City for the fine teams which he used to drive.

The firm of Pope & Talbot has been carried on by the sons of Captain Talbot and A. J. Pope, the original founders. The company recently disposed of its retail lumber yard to the Charles McCormick Lumber Company. Talbot has been unable for several years to attend to the business of the firm at its offices in the Russ building in San Francisco, but has maintained an active interest in the concern from his Hillsborough home.

Talbot was married twice, divorce ending the first marriage. Three children by the first marriage, Miss Vera Talbot, Hillsborough; Frederick C. Talbot, Seattle, and William C. Talbot, Los Angeles, survive. And the second wife, the former Susan Darneal, whom he married in 1917. Tablot was a brother of the late Frederick C. Talbot, Mrs. Cyrus Walker, Mrs. Sophia G. Pierce and Mrs Henry Dutton Jr.

He was also the uncle of Talbot Walker and granduncle of Mrs. Harriet Brownell Pope, wife of George E. Pope Jr., well-known polo player. Talbot was a director of the Wells Fargo Bank and Union Trust Company, as well as a member of other concerns.

DEMOCRATS GAIN SUPPORT THROUGH UNEXPECTED RALLY

Bourbons Near Control of Congress As Result of Tuesday's Election Returns; Democratic Support in Poll Is Surprise of National Election

By Raymond Clipper
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (UP)—Democrats outdid their fondest election hopes and tonight working control of both Houses of Congress was almost, although not quite, within their grasp.

In the Senate race, both parties were almost toeing the majority line. Republicans had a total of 47 Senators elected tonight, two shoort of a clear majority of the 96 states. Democrats had 46 elected.

The issue rested with two undecidstates, in Kentucky and in Minnesota.

Displacing eight Republican senators, the Democrats found themselves 24 hours after Tuesday's election was over within three seats of a prize they had not dared to dream of—actual control of the Senate. However, at the very moment they edged nearest this triumph, their senatorial candidate in Iowa, Daniel F. Steck, conceded defeat at the hands of Rep. J. L. Dickinson, Republican candidate This loss of a solitary Democratic seat cost the Democrats their chance at a clear ever-all senate majority.

The most they could hope for after that was to win one seat short of actual control, in which case the balance of power would be held by the single farmer-labor member, Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota. Another seat appeared possible to be slipped from their grasp in Minnesota, where Senator Schall, Republican, after a poor start, was slowly catching up and threatening to overtake his Democratic opponent, Einar Roidale.

The remaining seat in doubt was in Kentucky, where the result may not be known before tomorrow.

Both parties were in an equally desperate struggle for the house early tonight. Republicans had elected 186 representatives with a possible total of at least 206 in sight—12 short of a numerical majority. Democrats were close on their heels with 199 seats as certain and at least 204 in sight. They broke through the Republican lines in Illinois, taking six seats from their opponents.

In Ohio they seized another half dozen, in Nebraska they gained two and similar inroads were scattered about the country as straggling returns came over the wires The Republicans, on the other hand, were compelled to content themselves with figuring to hold their own. They held the one Republican seat they failed to recapture former president Cooledge's home district in Massachusetts, where William L. Granfield, an anti-prohibition Democrat was reelected.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (UP)—The standing tonight in the House of Representatives with a few districts still undecided, was as follows:

Democrats Elected	211
Republicans Elected	211
Farm-Labor Elected	1
Total	423
Seats still in doubt	12

Final returns from Kentucky, and districts in Missouri and Utah will determine the outcome.

Governor Rolph!

By D. E. O'KEEFE

It was predicted in these columns during the campaign that the majority for James Rolph, Jr., republican nominee for governor, would reach the million mark. It has materialized, and he has been given a vote that will be about one million over his democratic opponent, Milton K. Young. It is the largest majority ever given a candidate for governor in California, or any other state in the union. This is gratifying to the popular and colorful mayor and to his friends throughout the state who supported him in both campaigns to the limit. Mr. Rolph has made a good mayor, and so also will make a conscientious and able governor. The Times-Gazette congratulates him on his splendid victory and wishes him success in his new field of endeavor at Sacramento.

San Mateo county gave Rolph a rousing vote. He received 18,403 and Young, 2339, a ratio of eight to one. The majority was the largest ever given a candidate for office in San Mateo county. The people of the peninsula appreciate what Mr. Rolph has done for them while mayor of the metropolis, and showed their approval by an almost unanimous vote for him at the polls last Tuesday. San Mateo county claims the honor of being the banner county of the state in the largeness of the vote accorded him in point of population. The majority given Rolph was greater than any other county with a similar vote. The vote that came out was as great as that of the primary election. The people simply came to the polls to cast a ballot for their favorite candidate for governor. There were hardly any other contests to bring the citizens to the polls. The big vote was a splendid tribute to Mr. Rolph and to the republican party of which he is the leader.

Making Towns Grow

Every community wants to grow. How to make it grow is frequently regarded as a process bottomed on some hokus pokus, veto chang formula which no one knows and could not understand if he did.

But the recipe for community growth is simplicity itself, says Carl Goerch, in a statement in Nation's Business. Here is what Mr. Goerch has to say:

'Give me the whole-hearted, sincere cooperation of about 200 of its citizens and I'll guarantee to make any average small town one of the most talked-of and most popular places in the United States. And it won't cost anybody a penny either. Not a single, solitary cent.

"Let us suppose — just by way of illustration—that the president of the Chamber of Commerce in Utopia, Ohio, sees this assertion and decides to send for me to ascertain what it is all about. I pack my bag and hustle off to Utopia as fast as I can. The first thing I'd do would be to call a meeting of about 200 men. Utopia, let us say, has a population of 10,000. I announce that the meeting is to take place on a certain night and I insist that nothing can be done unless 200 men attend. Men from all walks of life are wanted—business and professional men, clerks, salesmen, farmers and laborers. Utopia is a fairly progressive town, 200 men are present, I am introduced, I get up and make my speech.

"I'm going to make a very brief talk. We are going to endeavor to make Utopia the most popular town in the country. No money is to be spent. I ask you men to do two things. First, speak to every stranger you see in town; second, be on the lookout for any service you might be able to render him. That's all I have to say, except I hope everyone will co-operate to the fullest extent, providing you decide to accept my plan.

"And now I am confident that if the citizens of Utopia conscientiously try to follow this plan they will be more than satisfied with their campaign. At the end of two months, the name of their town will be on the lips of thousands of persons in all parts of the country. When some particular town is mentioned as being a fine place to live, most likely someone present will announce enthusiastically:

" 'But you ought to visit Utopia! There's a real town for you. Finest folks in the world. I was there a short while ago and I'm looking forward to my next visit. One of these days I am going to buy me a house there and make it my home." '

All of life should be full of the unsuppressed mirth and joy of gratitude.—Robert Speer.

It Isn't the Size of the Dog in the Fight... It's the size of the Fight in the Dog

America has been geing through a battle of depression. The fight isn't over, but America can now begin to see victory ahead. At last the American people are beginning to realize that their own mental attitude is the enemy. Now they know what to fight. Now they know how to win that fight.

They know that they have permitted themselves to talk gloom and to think gloom. They realize they have listened to bad business and talked and helped to spread such talk. They have allowed themselves to be affected by all this talk and, fearing worse conditions, have tightened up and taken their money out of circulation. They have felt poor whether they were or not, developed an over-cautiousness, grown suspicious. Backbones have become wishbones and clear vision has been befogged.

The American people are beginning to realize that, regardless of what started present business conditions, they themselves have been responsible for helping put them where they are today.

But, confidence is returning because the people are awakening to their own folly. Courage is returning because they know the country is fundamentally and economically sound. Faith is returning because the size of the fight in America is too big to admit defeat.

It is now proposed that we give business a push in the right direction, and it behooves every person, regardless of his station in life, to make some extra effort to readjust the wheels of industry.

No man is too poor to keep a stiff upper lip and smile if he has any fight in him at all, and if the men and women who can buy needed commodities, will throw fear overboard and buy, those who have nothing but a smile will soon be joining the spenders.

Confidence begets confidence. The margin between good times and bad times is the extra expenditure of less than 15 cents per day per person in the United States.

If you are willing to admit that you are tired of present conditions, if you are willing to admit that you are ready for prosperity, stop looking at the world through smoked glasses. Stop being afraid. Get into the fight and get a little more fight into you.

Present conditions will change and prosperity will be yours only when you decide to change these conditions. And each individual working together, with a purpose, can do it.

Get on your mark! Get Set!

Business Better

The Times-Gazette believes that there is much improvement in the business conditions in this section, and that within the next few weeks it will be even better.

There has been so much talk of 'hard times" that the people as a rule think nothing else. Money is not as plentiful as in former days but at that people have money to spend for what they want. Talking "hard times" will certainly not bring money into circulation.

Recently the owner of one of the largest stores in Redwood City stated that the volume of business done this year had exceeded that of last year to the present time by a large margin. The Times-Gazette believes that many of the other wide-awake stores and business firms have enjoyed a similar prosperous patronage. When we check up on the amount of business we have done this year and compare it with the volume of last year the result generally is quite satisfactory.

Wouldn't it be fine for all of us to start talking 'good times' instead of 'hard times?" It's all a habit any way, and talking against the best interest of our splendid little city and county is only resulting in injury to each of us. Let's resolve to boost instead of knock, and before we realize what has brought it all about business conditions will become much improved, if not normal again.

Misleading Uniforms

The Times-Gazette is bitterly opposed to the practice of certain drivers in commercial employ of wearing uniforms virtually the same as those of state and city police officers.

Clothing which is indistinguishable from uniforms worn by police officers has no place as the garb of men not engaed in police service. Certain filling station attendants wear uniforms closely resembling those worn by police officers. These commercial drivers and filling station attendants perform a useful function, and as a whole they are doubtless an estimable class of men. But bus drivers and filling station attendants in an officer's uniform have no place in our business life.

If there's a law against gambling, why is marriage indulged in so freely?

Five per cent seems a pitiful small return on our money until we've tried to get ten per cent and lost our principal.

Most trouble is produced by those who do not produce anything else.

Love's Sacrifice
By Mildred Barbour

After dinner, as the two girls chatted, Sally frequently brought Dr. Randolph's name into the conversation.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

Sally Todd and Lois Montgomery leave home to seek their fortunes in New York.

Sally's brother, Bert, who is in love with Lois, follows them.

Lois meets a young man whom she knew when she was a wealthy woman's secretary.

He and a chap named FRISBY show her and Sally little attention, but Lois' thoughts are chiefly on the problems of existence.

Lois finally gets a job with a firm of interior decorators. Sally struggles for a foothold in the movies. They have a hard time making both ends meet.

Sally enters hospital training, finally convinced that the films hold no future for her.

Lois is absorbed i nher own work.

During her employer's illness, she is sent to the palatial residence of James Walton to make a preliminary report.

Sally's liking for gay company causes a coolness between herself and Lois.

It also involves Lois in difficulties with Bert.

Lois is strongly attracted to Walton, who is much older than herself, and very rich and distinguished. —She finds him very cold and domineering.'

—He demands she give up her friendship with Sally.

Sally, meanwhile, is in hot water at the hospital, because she is too fond of a good time.

Chapter 24

After an especially gay party she is assigned in an emergency to night duty.

She falls asleep while waiting for the special nurse to come, and the patient, in her delirium, rushes from the room and jumps from a window. By a miracle she escapes with minor injuries, but Sally's fate is sealed.

Unfit

She is dismissed in disgrace just before graduation.

Chapter 29.

An Unexpected Offer

Dr. Dale Dandolph had won his way in the world by the hardest kind of work. He had earned his way through medical school and had eked out his merger allowance during his internship by translating scientific treatises.

He now had an enviable standing in his profession, and his practice was both large and lucrative, but he had not forgotten his early struggles, and each year a considerable part of his income was used to help promising young men and women who were medical students. While Sally did not come within this classification, he nevertheless felt that he ought to help her when he learned of her dismissal from training.

Like Lois, he spent entirely too much time worrying about the blow that Sally's self-respect would receive from such disgrace. He did not guess that, once away from the hospital and the things that reminded her of her unpleasant experience there, Sally's spirits would soon rise.

When a colleague had told him that she had fallen asleep while on emergency duty, and that her patient's life had been endangered in consequence, he knew that dismissal would be inevitable, and he took it for granted that Sally, despite her careless attitude toward life, would be distraught. Realizing that she must face her punishment, he still wanted to do something to soften the blow.

His mind fixed itself at once on the practical side of the situation. He knew Sally had no money, and that she was not trained for a position in the business world. How could she make a living, now that the nursing profession was closed to her?. He remembered hearing her speak of a rich friend, but would that friend stand by her, now that she was in trouble?

Suddenly a solution of the problem came to him. His office nurse had asked for a leave of absence during the summer Most of his patients would be abroad or in the country, and there would be very little for her to do Sally could attend to the routine of answering telephone calls and making appointments He would ask her if she cared to work for him for two months At the end of that time, she would have adjusted herself to her new circumstances

Accordingly, he called the hospital and asked for Sally, but the operator told him that she was unable to come to the 'phone He left his number, but later on he called again, for it had just occurred to him that Sally might need a temporary loan, if she had to find a lodging-place that night On learning that she had left the hospital, he asked for the superintendent of nurses, and "Bones" came to the telephone

After Sally's departure, "Bones" had shed a few tears in the privacy of her office She had been very much upset and unnerved by the unfortunate affair, and she had more sympathy for Sally than she would have confessed to However, when dinner was over, and she was discussing the final details, of commencement with a committee of graduates, she overheard a remark by Sally's roommate that made her feel that her sympathy had been wasted

The girl was confiding to a chum that "Sally used to take something to brace her up, after she'd been out on a gay party" "Bones" demanded an explanation, and the girl in panic, stammered something about having heard Sally say that she had occasionally taken a little brandy from the hospital supply when she felt tired At least, the girl told herself, that was better than telling "Bones" that she was sure that Sally sometimes used drugs to carry through the fatigue of the day's grind

So when Dr Randolph talked to the superintendent over the telephone, she told him what Sally's roommate had told her "And to think that that wretched girl abused my patience for months," she concluded, indignantly "Many times I felt sorry for her and tried to give her easier work, because I thought her duties were too much for her strength."

Dr. Randolph admitted to himself that this complicated matters. If what "Bones" told him was true, it would be impossible for him to have Sally in his office even temporarily. He would question her very serfously on that point, if she should come to see him. When he talked to her over the telephone the next morning, he was unusually grave and impersonal, so much so that Sally mistook his reserve for embarrassment and gave her sentimental fancy full rein for the rest of the day.

She presented herself at his office the following afternoon, punctual to the moment. Before he had had an opportunity to say more than a few words of greeting, she had burst into a storm of self-reproach. After that, it was doubly hard to say what he had in mind, but he finally did, explaining that he had intended to offer her a position in his office and that it was essential that a certain rumor as to her habits be cleared up. Then, very frankly, he told her what this rumor was.

Sally was very thankful that nothing worse had been said about her. As she looked into Dale Randolph's friendly eyes, she felt that she couldn't bear to tell him the truth. What was the use of hurting him? she asked herself. She was not a drug addict. And it would never to necessary for her to use drugs to bolster up her strength, now that she was away from the grind of training. There would be no more gay parties on occasional nights off. If he gave her a chance to work for him, she'd be on her best behavior always.

So she looked up at him with her most innocent, most engaging smile, and lied. And he believed her. She felt a swift pang as she realized how easily and completely she had deceived him, but she salved her conscience with a vow to prove herself worthy of his confidence.

Driving home with Lois that evening, she made enthusiastic plans for the future. "I'll be the best office assistant he's ever had," she declared. "I know just how to handle the sort of patients he has."

After dinner, as the two girls chatted, Sally frequently brought Dr. Randolph's name into the conservation. Lois finally became rather tired of hearing his praises, and she allowed her thoughts to wander, little dreaming that Dale Randolph was fated to play an important part in her own life in the very near future.

HOW IRELAND GOT ITS NAME

AN OLD CELTIC LEGEND SAYS IRELAND WAS ALTOGETHER SUBMERGED, EXCEPT DURING BRIEF PERIODS, EVERY SEVENTH YEAR.. Red Cross Aids Utah Victims Of Cloudburst

134 Families Made Homeless By Floods Assisted By This Agency

Assistance is being extended by the Red Cross to 134 families whose homes were either totally or partially destroyed in the series of cloudbursts which swept over Utah, Salt Lake and Davis counties, Utah, in July and August. This help consists of the rebuilding of homes and barns, the replacing of trees and crops and the purchase of seed, stock, and farm implements.

J. W. Richardson, in charge of disaster relief for the Pacific Coast area of the Red Cross, has been directing the relief operations ever since the first appeal came for help. Working in close touch with Governor Dern, he has surveyed the entire disaster area and mapped out the relief program. He has been assisted by Miss Deborah Pentz, case-worker from the Pacific Branch Office, San Francisco, who personally visited each family to find out its needs.

The most serious damage to property was caused by the dirt and boulders which were washed down over the farm lands by the flood waters, following the cloudbursts. Not only were the present crops destroyed, but much land which was fertile before the catastrophe, will never be of any value again. This has meant that the Red Cross has had to assist some families with first payments on new lands to replace those that were ruined.

Red Cross chapters in Utah united in a campaign to raise funds to supplement an appropriation given by the National Red Cross.

British Discuss Church Tenets

LONDON, Nov. 3 (UP)—When the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops announced the results of its discussions, particularly its lenient attitude towards birth control, it started a controversy which has raged ever since.

Hardly a day passes but some prominent churchman will praise, or denounce or explain the decisions.

Here are two statements, both for and against the conference, and both made on the same day.

Useful Srevice.

Doctor J. A. Kempthorne, Bishop of Lichfield, addressing the Diocesan conference at Stafford, declared that the Lambeth conference had rendered useful service by making it clear that the Christian religion was not one of mere prohibits and taboos.

"We say," he continued, "that sex relationship is something beautiful and sacred. We want to rescue it from the cesspool of thought and conversation into which some of our modern writers have degraded it, and reaffirm that the home is at the center of human well-being and that the foundation of the home is our Lord's principle and standard of marriage—that is, a life-long and and indissoluble union 'for better or worse' of one man with one woman and the exclusion of all other on either side."

The Bishop said that the conference's resolutions stressed the need for self-control and unselfishness in married and unmarried alike.

Glory at Home

"On this subject of sex, the whole trend of the resolutions and of the report is towards positive teaching on the sacredness of sex relationship and the glory of the Christian home."

Sex teaching and its influence on the young was discussed on the same day at a convention of the National Sunday School Union at Gloucester.

"I do not consider that overmuch sex teaching is good," declared S. Waterhouse, addressing the convention. "There is a danger of familiarty breeding flippancy.

"It is inadvisable that sex instruction be given indiscriminately."

The Rev. A. D. Beldon, speaking on the moral and religious ideals of adolescence said that love-making has destroyed their innocence and prematurely arousing their passions.

"Calf-love," he said, "is nothing to be feared. It is almost always intensely pure and clean, and non-physicial."

Famous Old French Market May Be Razed

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7 (UP)—The Old French market, located more than a century and a half ago on the river edge of what then was all there was of New Orleans and what now is known as the Vieux Carre, or French Quarter, may yield to the city's growth.

Plans of the New Orleans levee board contemplate moving it for improvements along the Mississippi, now lined with the modern, state-owned docks.

Of all the 32 municipally owned markets in New Orleans the old French market is most closely knit with legend and romance which carefully is preserved in the French Quarter, comprising some 60 square blocks adjoining the main business district.

Originally known as Les Halles des Boucheries, the market was established within a stone's throw of many of the historical spots.

It is near Jackson Square, which in the days of French dominion, was known as the Palace d'Armes. It took it present name from General Andrew Jackson, victor of the Battle of Chalmette near New Orleans in the War of 1812. The market is equally near St. Louis Cathedral, where in a crypt lie the bones of the saintly priest, Pere Antoine, and the Cabildo, erected in Napoleon's time. From a balcony was read the proclamation of the Louisiana purchase that transferred this territory to the United States.

The Old French market today is as popular with the thrifty Creole housewives of the Vieux Carre as in other days and vivid with colorful displays of fruit and vegetables.

Even now, the Creole laughingly ask lagniape with their purchases, although the gift which used to be customery with each purchase, however, small, has been abandoned.

The thirty-two municipally owned markets, many of which are very old, recently have proved a puzzling problem to the city, as they have been found to be improperly distributed for efficient service.

One of the items of a state bond issue which will be voted this Fall provides $1,000,000 for their improvement.

State May Pay Highway Funds One Year Ahead

Funds to County from Gas Tax May Be Advanced To Speed Roads

By HOMER L ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 4 (UP)—Tomorrow's highways today.

That may be the program for San Mateo county—if the plan of "advancing" each county its share of next year's gasoline tax money materializes.

The proposal was made to Governor Young in order that all counties may start their highway programs immediately and help relieve the unemployment crisis in California.

As a result, the governor has authorized B. B. Meek, director of public works ,to make a study of an old state law, enacted in 1921, authorizing a governor to "advance" revenues to counties in times of great stress, from the general or emergency funds.

If Meek finds that it can legally be done, one of the greatest programs of highway building in California will get under way at once.

Meanwhile, Meek himself has inaugurated a million-dollar road-building program which will employ some 2,000 men at present out of work. It will be carried on in all parts of the state.

Steam shovels and other machinery will be displaced for man-power with the pick and shovel, Meek said. Four camps would be established in Northern California and four in Southern California.

The most comprehensive program for unemployment relief, however, was offered by Will J. French, director of industrial relations. He proposes a study whereby relief may be provided for not only the present crisis but also others that may occur in the future, as follows:

Appointment of a state unemployment committee to study the problem in conjunction with cities, counties and universities.

An intensive study of unemployment insurance with a view to submitting a bill to the 1931 legislature.

That state, county and city work be planned to provide a mixiumum of employment, and available federal resources utilized to the greatest advantage.

That attention of employers be directed to stabilization of employment, the alternating of "layoffs," the dismissal wage, and the importance of new industries.

That study be given to the five-day week, pension plan group and compensation insurance, age discrimination in industry, etc.

A legislative appropriation of 100,000 will be sought to carry these proposals into effect.

ABSENTED-MINDED PROFESSOR LECTURES IN WRONG ROOM

BERKELEY, Cal Nov. 4 (UP)—There's something in the old gags after all.

Many a time, Professor Stuart Daggett had laughed indulgently at that old one about the absent-minded professor. The other day, he walked into the class room and began a rapid-fire lecture on some engineering problem.

Prompted by a student, he blushed, said "I must be in the wrong room," and left. The students then settled down to a lecture on the commission form of government by another professor, which was what they had come for.

OLD?

Narcissus Castro, although admitting 95, denies the allegation. To prove it, he points to his ability to fork a mean bronco. Castro, who will display his horsemanship during the Gilroy, Cal., wild west round-up, Nov. 15, is reputed to be the world's oldest cowboy.

STILL GOING STRONG

John T. Stevenson, Stockton, Cal., deputy sheriff, doesn't intend to let his 77 years interfere with having a high old time enroute to Honolulu. Interviewed on the Matson liner, Manoa, just before sailing from San Francisco, Stevenson said this was his first ocean voyage, but: "I'm going to have a great time. Will I dance with all the pretty girls on deck every night? You bet! Not so bad for an old fellow, eh?" And he reeled off a few steps that belied his 77 years.

Frenchman Demonstrates New Electrical Organ

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov 7. (UP)—An electrical organ, evolved by means of a series of wireless lamps, is the latest musical achievement in the electro-magnetic sphere of science, according to General Ferrie whose research work has made him an eminent authority.

General Ferrie presented the new instrument to the Academy of Sciences and Inventions and M. M. Coupleux and Givelet demonstrated its faculties before scientists and musicians.

The new instrument is composed of 15 lamps whose electrical currents generate a 108 separate and distinct notes controlled by two keyboards and a foot-pedal. These can be grouped at will to form the same musical chords performed on the organ, or piano now in use. By touching the keyboard and pedal the currents generated by the closure of the electrical circuits produces the sound. The wireless lamps forming the delicate mechanism of this new instrument are enclosed in the framework just back of the keyboards. An electrical current producing a modulation of the note creates a tremolo.

An organ without pipes and without the necessity for wind pressure and other complicated mechanisms produces an instrument of minimum cumbersomness and at the same time permits the execution of notes in rapid succession and with great clarity of tone.

Many attempts have been made to produce electrical musical instruments but so far they have only aroused a mild curiosity. Whether or not this new pipeless organ will prove a successful invention is a question that time will have to answer.

Famous Horses Arriving For Tanforan Race

Special Train Brings Many Fleet Steeds to Enter Racing Season

Loaded to the brim with thoroughbreds ,the "Chicago" Special arrived this week at Tanforan Many stake horses were numbered in the shipments, including such as Tonto Rock, Nusagan, and Seths Hope.

Fourteen horse cars, one coach, a pullman, and a diner comprised the train. It made near record time in the dash from Chicago being routed via Illinois Central, Union Pacific, and Southern Pacific direct to Tanforan siding. L. F. Rosler, Southern Pacific Rgent, supervised the train, while Joe Walters was in charge for the horsemen.

Four star riders were on the train. These are Guy De Pesco, developer of Chicago racing, Willie Moran, who rode at Tanforan last spring, Ralph West, one of America's leading apprentice pilots, and Lloyd Trimble, who rode .this summer for G. A. Cochran of New York.

With the stabling of this shipment at the San Bruno course, Tanforan is almost filled to capacity. Reservations are being held for the Audley Farm and a few other top notch stables which are scheduled to arrive late this week.

WATER COMPANY CHANGES NUMBER OF DIRECTORS

Amended articles of incorporation have been filed by the Bear Gulch Water Company, the company serving Menlo Park, Ravenswood and Woodside with water, according to a certificate filed in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese. The new articles of incorporation increase the number of members on the board of directors of the company from five to seven. The amendment to the articles was passed by the board of directors by a vote of three to two.

Tonto Rock headed the stable of Stuart Polk. This horse will be a contender in Tanforan stakes. Nusakan, Miss Cheyenne, Gen. Jackson, Fetching and Kit Carson came to add to the extensive string of C. B. Irwin now on the ground. Jim Parsons of Montana unloaded a powerful stable led by Seth Hope, a nominee for the $10,000 San Francisco Handicap, and Lady Seth, clever middle distance mare.

The R. C. Stable of Walter H. Hoffman, Jr., of Ventura occupied an entire car. Red Chilli, Poppyfield, and Big Stuff are their three campaigners. Other owners represented were C. E. Davison, H. Roberts, M. E. Syufy, C. E. Graham, J. D. Mikel, Joe Cooper, Tim Toohey, Raymond Peternell, and F. Sharkey.

Arrangements are being made to run a special train from Los Angeles Friday evening, November 14, direct to Tanforan for the inaugural on Saturday, November 15.

Directing the affairs of the Postal Telegraph Co., of which he is president, or tapping corner stones into position—Clarence Mackay seems to do either equally well. Above, Mackay is placing the corner stone in the new science building recently presented by him, in honor of his mother and father, to the University of Nevada.

ENGLAND'S ROYAL TABLE LINEN WORTH $40,000

LONDON, Nov. 3. (UP)—The royal linen at Buckingham Palace is valued at $40,000, experts whom she called in, have notified Queen Mary.

The "mother cloth," woven for the wedding breakfast of Queen Victoria and rarely used, is the most remarkable piece in the collection. It is large enough to cover a table at which 220 places can be laid.

According to a legend ill-luck will befall anyone spilling liquid upon this cloth. The more superstitious recall that after the funeral of King Edward, a banquet was given to visiting royalties and their suites and a German dignitary accidentally spilled wine on the cloth.

They place some significance on this incident and the world war. An other famous cloth is one made for the coronation dinner of Queen Anne. It is said to be valued at $2,500.

GERMANS GET INTERESTING FILM OF WILD ANIMALS

BERLIN. (UP)—Material for an interesting UFA nature film has been brought back from an expedition the the Carpathian mountains led by Dr. U. K. T. Schulz.

Pictures were made of herons, ibis birds, hawks, falcons, pelicans and vultures. Films also were made of the Rumanian bear while drinking, breakfast and when attacking a flock of sheep.

MENLO PARK

The members of St. Joseph's Alumni Association will attend commass Sunday morning. All members munion in a body in the church of the Nativity at the eight o'clock are urged to be present.

George Angus, the widley known horticulturist, met with an automobile accident Tuesday afternoon while returning from work. He is the chief gardiner at the Heller place at Atherton, and while driving on Elena avenue he was run into by Mr. Sanches, truck driver for E. T. Perry. Mr. Angus was thrown to the ground suffering severe cuts and abrasions and some internal injuries Both machines were demolished. It is said Sanches was driving at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred. Mr. Angus will not return to his employment for several days.

J. Avery Smith, manager of the Emporium in San Francisco, has leased the beautiful Frank R. Caine home for a period of two years. The Smiths have two children attending the parochial school and two to Sequoia Union high school at Redwood City. The Smiths are quite an acquisition to Menlo Park.

A. Schroeder, of Atherton, has been appointed by Postmaster B. Larrecou, a clerk in the local postoffice, a position just created by the department at Washington. Schroeder was the high man on the list of eligibles.

Felix McGinniss, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Company, has closed his summer residence here and has moved to the city. Week-end trips will be made to the home here.

The City council is keeping in mind the widening of the state highway through town and is watching every movement in that direction. The mayors of this section of the state have an organization that meets quarterly and at every session this matter of street widening is discussed at lenght. The city attorneys also have a similar organization, that has this matter in mind. Leon David, assistant city attorney of Palo Alto, is to draft a bill for the next legislature giving power to the state highway commission to pay for buildings moved back and for all other costs that may occrue in the course of widening such highways. Improvished cities could not defray the costs of these set backs and therefore the work could not possibly proceed. No doubt the next legislature will remedy this. Unless it does the widening of the highway through Menlo Park will not proceed for the city could not assume the burden. The city council is in favor of the contemplated improvement but it will not permit the town to be burdened in this way.

The ancient white oak tree on Hoover street, now being improved, had to succumb to the inevitible during the week by submitting to the woodman's ax. It was in the way and had to be removed to clear the street of all objections. It is a pity that thse old land marks have to go for only God can make a tree.

There has been a great hullabaloo made for some time about Menlo Park being the distributing point for narcotics for the peninsula. The chief of police and the mayor have received communications from the narcotic department of San Francisco and the State Pharmacy Narcotic Department in which letters it is stated that such a statement is ridiculous and absurd and that the city is free of any drugs. Chief Love is keeping a close watch on dope peddlers and he declares that the town is etirely free of drug venders.

At the election on Tuesday, James Rolph, the republican nominee for governor, received a splendid vote, doefeating Young, democratic candidate by a ratio of nearly eight to one.

The vote was as follows; precinct No. one, Rolph 134, Young 15; Lieutenant governor, Merriam, republican, 71; Welsh, democratic, 71; Precinct No. two, Rolph 104, Young 18; Merriam 65, Welsh 46; Precinct No. three, Rolph 151, Young 17; Merriam 88, Welsh 69; Precinct No. four, Rolph, 98, Youg 15; Merriam 83, Welsh 26; Precinct No. five, Rolph 78, Young 13; Merriam 65, Welsh 25. The Rolph for Goveror Club did splendid work during both campaigns which is acknowledged by Mayor Rolph in a letter to the club yesterday. The officers, members invited to take part in the inauguration next January and reservations are being made at Sacramento for them. The members will hold a celebration shortly and then wind up the business of the organization. Two years from now the club will be revived as a Hoover organization.

John V. Dupont, young son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Dupont of this city, and Miss Ida Harrington, a pretty young lady of Palo Alto, will be united in marriage in San Francisco tomorrow Mr. Dupont is a mechanic with the Shell Oil Company in San Francisco which place the young couple will reside. The romance that is to culminate in marriage began during the school days of the young couple.

Yesterday afternoon the sixty-fourth wedding anniversary of Mr. ad Mrs. John Bracesco was observed by the couple by a dinner. Mr. Braceso has resided in Menlo Park since 1867. Numerous old friends called upon the couple yesterday paying their respects and well wishes for future happiness.

St. Joseph's Alumni Association are rehearsig for another play to be placed on the boards soon.

The appointment of a superintendent for the Bear Gulch Water Company has not yet been made but a selection is to be made by the state university in a few days. It is rumored that Mrs. Lyon will be the lucky one. Mrs. Eastland Britton, widow of the late Eastland Britton, has accepted a position in the office of the company here and will take office on November 17. She is a very competent woma and will be a happy addition to the force. Mrs. Britton is to continue to reside at the Bear Gulch Lake. The new superintendent may reside in Menlo Park.

The annual rummage sale for the benefit of Trinity Episcopal church was held in the bank block yesterday. Many bargains were offered to the vast number of patrons and friends of the congregation that made purchases. A snug sum was received much to the satisfaction of the good ladies of the church who worked diligently for the success of the affair.

WOODSIDE

All expectations were realized at the entertainment given last Friday evening by the Parent-Teacher Association at the Woodside Hall. The children were made happy and the older folks enjoyed themselves as much as the youngsters. The dramatic program provided the histrionic talent latent in the community. The cast of the play was well chosen and each of the actresses made the most of her part. The outstanding stars of the performance were Mrs. James Wilkie and Mrs. George Givens.

The children's costume review caused much merriment, the prizes for the best costumes being taken by June Harra and Bobby Givens. The latter part of the evening was devoted to dancing, excellent music being furnished by Earl Rush's orchestra from Redwood City.

Miss Phyllis Blackington entertained twelve of her friends to luncheon and bridge on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ettore Avenali will present their daughter, Miss Marianna Avenali to society at a ball to be given at the Burlingame Country Club on Saturday evening, December 13th

The Stanford football team is quartered at the Family Farm searching diligently for that fighting spirit that has been absent from their games to date. They seem to feel that they may have need of this particular ingredient in their game against Washington on Saturday.

Mrs. Fritz Clamer entertained a luncheon party in honor of Mrs. Emma Andreen.

Thomas Stewart, superintendent for Daniel C. Jackling, has just returned from a two weeks vacation spent in Salt Lake City.

Cherokees To Meet Bearcats At S. M.

By GEORGE AABEL

In a game that may pick the winer of the P. A. L., Sequoia 110's will meet San Mateo Dimes tonight at the opponent's court. The Cherokee team has been improving steadily since its last encounter with the Bearcats three weeks ago. They have won their last three games and are therefore conceded a 50-50 chance to win this evening. Three weeks ago the Sequoians lost to the Bearcats, but they are determined to reverse the score this time and from all viewpoints it looks as though they will.

The 120's are having a bit of ill luck since their captain, Ed Matheson, has been sick with the "flu," and will not start for Sequoia. The absence of Captain Matheson has necessitated a great change in the lineup. Instead of Emile Pommes and Ed Dower at forwards, as has been in the past, Harold Kniveton, former first string, and El Garcia will start at forward positions and Pommes will go back to guard, as will Blasdel.

The probable lineups for Sequoia are as follows:

McGuire (c)	forward	Kniveton
Swanson	forward	Garcia
Inouye	Center	Demma
Shine	Guard	Pommes
Murphy	Guard (act c)	Blasdel

WASHINGTON SCHOOL BEATS LINCOLN SCHOOL

The Algonquin Friendly Indians of Washington school downed the Sioux Friendly Indians of Lincoln school on Monday afternoon by a score of 36 to 0. The Sioux were considerably outweighed and were handicapped by the absence of several first string men.

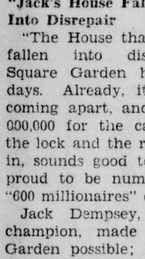
In the first quarter the Washington boys brought in two touchdowns which came as a result of intercepting passes. In the second quarter two more touchdowns were made by a series of criss-cross plays which perplexed the Lincoln boys. To find the man with the ball was mighty difficult for the Sioux. In the third quarter the Washington boys put in several of their second string men. When these in the game the smooth running machine was disrupted to a certain extent so that the Sioux could hold their own but were unable to make any decided gains. In the last quarter the Washington boys replaced their first string men and brought in touchdowns which brought the score up to 36 to 0 as the final whistle blew.

Sequoia To Meet Palo Alto Cagers

Sequoia high varsity football team will meet their arch rivals, Palo Alto, next Tuesday, Armistice Day on the local gridiron, in the "Little Big Game of the season for the two schools. This game will mark the close of Sequoia's league season, with Palo Alto having one more game to play.

Due to their strong record of holding San Mateo and Burlingame to scoreless ties, teams which defeated the Cherokees, the Palo Alto Vikings are favorites to win the annual grid tilt. The Indians are determined to put up a strong battle and upset the dope. The Cherokees looked woefully weak in the San Mateo contest, but this was due to the temporary loss of three veteran linemen and the lack of strong substitutes to fill in.

Coaches Ray Dimick and Len Casanova expect the locals to put up a strong battle with Captain "Chuck" DeLacy leading the offensive. Ed Cullen, Al Cleland and Roy McQuilkin will make up a strong backfield unit.



SPEAKING of SPORT

BY FRANK GETTY

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

"Jack's House Falls Into Disrepair

"The House that Jack Built" has fallen into disrepair. Madison Square Garden has seen its best days. Already, its organization is coming apart, and an offer of $6,000,000 for the capital stock, with the lock and the rain-barrel thrown in, sounds good to some who were proud to be numbered among the "600 millionaires" of yesteryear.

Jack Dempsey, as heavyweight champion, made Madison Square Garden possible; made it a necessity; made it what it is today, or rather what it should be if the boxing game hadn't fallen to pieces after Jack's defeat and retirement.

When Tex Rickard squinted those shrewd eyes of his down the inevitable cigar one blistering July day in Boyle's Thirty Acres and saw his dream of a "gate" of more than $1,000,000 come true, the late promoter started right in on another dream which was to materialize in the form of Madison Square Garden. Dempsey's popularity, his ring prestige, made the fight game, and hence the Garden. As long as he was slaughtering pale Frenchmen or swarthy Argentines, the Garden was an absolute necessity. Even some terrible fights perpetrated in the sports temple looked great to the admiring fans.

Just Half Of a Fight

All that is changed. After Dempsey, there was only Tunney, and Gene was only half a fight. The decline has been gradual and not immediately was it apparent, for after Rickard's death, the new Garden crowd kept the fight business inflated and expected to carry it on with nothing more than the ballyhoo. The customers finally found out about that, although it took them an extraordinary long while to do so.

Right now, things are pretty bad, although W. F. Carey insists upon hanging on as president of the Garden and professes to see better days ahead. He says the men backing the Garden are interested in it as a sporting proposition, even if it doesn't pay. Well, as to that, we'll see what we shall see.

The departure of Frank January Bruen who had been handling fights for the Garden with characteristic good humor, if no very great financial success, was a step towards retrenchment. Closing down on fight cards in the Boston Garden and calling off any Miami show for next Ferbuary are said to be in the same line of economy.

James N. Crofton, secretary and general manager of the Agua Caliente Company, discussed the purchase of the Garden from its present stockholders with Frank Bruen shortly before the latter's resignation became effective. Mr. Crofton sought plenty of publicity on that occasion, and announced he had offered $6,000,000. The crowd he represented have the money, all right, but it savored more of an advertising stunt for Agua Caliente than a bona fide offer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (UP)—A question heard often in the middle-west these days is: "How much longer will Knute Rockne remain as active head coach at Notre Dame?"

Rockne doubtless would never think of retiring but for his health. Rockne, however, knows he cannot keep on endangering his health by his strenuous activity on the football field.

Rockne is under physician's orders to keep off his feet while coaching, but he finds it hard to obey before the Carnegie Tech and Pittsburgh games, Rockne could not keep off his feet.

Rockne's ailment is phlebitis. Some of the deeper blood vessels in his legs have dried up, and he has to keep his legs wrapped with rubber bandages in order to faciliate circulation. He has to re-wrap the bandages every four hours.

Chair Used By Rockne

On the football field, a student manager follows him around with a chair for him to sit down in, but with a tough game ahead Rockne can't sit still in a chair.

He must get in the midst of his players, show them this, tell them that.

Rockne's problem is much the same as Fielding Yost's was at Michigan several years ago. Like Rockne Yost sleeps, eats and thinks football during the season. Finally, Yost's health became so precarious that his physicians told him he wouldn't have many years to live if he did't retire from active coaching. Yost then gave up the job of head coach and became athletic director. Even now, Yost finds it hard to stay away from the Michigan team before a big game.

Rockne's future may work out something like Yost's. Rockne is so closely interwoven with football at Notre Dame it is doubtful if he'll ever be able to get away from it entirely.

In his 13 years at Notre Dame (he is now in his 14th year) Rockne has compiled one of the greatest records in gridiron history, perhaps the very greatest.

Up until this season Rockne's teams have won 106 games, lost 13 and tied three. He has coached four undefeated and untied teams in 1919, 1920, 1924 and 1929. The first two were western championship teams and the latter two national championship elevens.

Rockne's 1930 team promises to when he lost four out of ten games, but he came back next year with an undefeated team. The only other season in which Rockne had lost more than one game was in 1925 when Army and Nebraska beat the Irish.

Rockne's 1930 team promises eo be one of the best he has ever coached. Notre Dame's 35-19 victory over Pittsburg was the fourth straight intersectional victory for the Irish this year, having conquered Southern Methodist, Navy, and Carnegie Tech in previous games.

Nebraska His Jinx

Nebraska has been Rockne's jinx team since he took over the coaching reins in 1917. The Cornhuskers have won four games, lost three and tied one with the Irish. No other team has won a majority of games in a series from Notre Dame under Rockne regime.

In addition to Nebraska's four victories ,the other teams which have beaten Notre Dame under Rockne are Carnegie Tach twice, Army twice, Michigan Aggies, Iowa, Wisconsin, Georgia Tech and Southern California.

No team has run up more than 27 points on Rockne's teams, and that has only been accomplished three times, twice in the lean year of 1928 by Carnegie and Southern California ,and once by Army in 1925.

AMERICAN DECIDES TO GIVE UP ENGLISH STABLE

LONDON, Nov. 7 (UP)—The little stable of American horses which came over to England last December ,and camped in an old-world spot at Telscombe, in Sussex, is to be broken up, after all.

C. J. Ryan's unique venture made one of the brightest features in English racing for many years. Everyone here, and at home, wished good luck to the little band. When, recently it was announced that the owner had decided to "pack up," there was much surprise and regret. It is understood that Ryan's business interests at home have prevented him from giving personal attention to his racing interests here.

According to Colonel Dansey who has acted as stable manager, a few of the horses will return to America with Trainer Loftus, and the remainder will be sent to the Newmarket December sales. Nine of the 14 horses which came to England ran during the year, and of these four won six races. A two-year-old, Instigator II, proved to be one of the best, and won a couple of good races.

In April the stable moved from Telscombe to more suitable quarters at Ogbourne, in Berkshire.

Rockne has developed some of the best coaches in the country and has 66 former pupils coaching from coast to coast this season. One of this group may come back as active coach, with Rockne retiring to the less strenuous job of athletic director in the not far distant future.

Public Against Tampering With Gas Tax System

Use of Gas Tax for Other Purposes Than Roads Is Opposed

By ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov 7 (UP)—About all that it needed to start a first class argument in California is for someone to suggest tampering in some way with the gasoline tax.

Last week the state board of equalization put forth a suggestion on this subject and was met with a barrage of protests from state highway officials ,automobile associations, etc,etc.

The suggestion of the board was that distribution of the gasoline tax be revised in some manner to relieve the property owners, so overburdened by taxes. Admitting that the reveues from this lucrative source of income would enable the state to build the finest system of highways, in the world, the board wondered if perhaps a new system of using the tax could not be devised to ease the burden of local taxpayers.

At present heavy ad valorem taxes are carried in many cities for construction of new streets and maintenance of old ones. It was the idea of the board of equalization that a portion of the gasoline tax could be used to finance this work, now borne entirely by the property owner.

Bert B. Meek, director of the state department of public works, in which the highway division is located, called the plan "class legislation of the most reprehensible kind" and called on all counties and communities to "see that their representatives in the next legislature refuse to give aid or comfort to this suggested raid on highway funds."

The California Automobile Association also came into print with the declaration that the gasoline tax must not be tampered with or revised insofar as distribution was concerned.

Although the counties get a share of the gasoline tax, one cent of the total three cents levy, the cities do receive any benefit from the tax. tax.

This suggestion by the board of equalization is not the first time the matter has been brought forward. Organizations inquiring into the evils of special assessments, which have caused many property owners to forfeit their land through inability to pay the assessments, have suggested that a portion of the gasoline tax be alloted to cities.

If any such proposal does appear in the next lgislature it will start a hot fight, judging from the present row caused by its mere suggestion.

S. F. Leads World In Proportion Of Phones Used

California Has One Phone To Four Persons In State's Population

By ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 7 (UP)—California has one telephone for every four persons in the state.

This figure is considerably above the average for the entire United States, which leads the world in telephones per capita, as the nation as a whole has but one telephone for every six persons

The state railroad commission has completed a survey of the telephone companies operating in California and finds that the total now stands at 117 companies.

The Bell Telephone Company controls the industry in this state with 39 per cent of the companies operating under its ownership.

San Francisco has the distinction of having more telephones in proportion to population than any large city in the world, the commission report found. With a population of 637,212, that city has 250,740 telephones within the city limits, although the San Francisco telephone exchange itself boasts considerably more than that number, some of them being in San Mateo county.

Consolidation of smaller companies into the Bell organization has resulted in heavy saving to the public in long distant tolls, according to the commission.

Where calls must be routed over lines owned by smaller concerns, the tolls mount rapidly, for these independent companies must get their "cut" of the receipts.

The few independent companies still in business are all in remote regions of the state, or connect towns that are within a short distance of each other, so that the average long distance call need not be routed except through lines of the one large system.

Some of the most important work of the telephone and telegraph division of the commission's engineering department is that of investigation of informal complaints and of operating practices and rules and regulation of telephone companies, the report said.

Communication utility service is continually under observation with resulting improvement in service conditions.

Armored Fish, Newest Find

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 7 (UP)—Discovery of fosils and plates and other parts from armoured fish said to have swam and battled nearly 100,000,000 years ago, was made recently near Alpena it has been disclosed at the University of Michigan museum here by Prof. E. C. Case who, with two other associates, are making a study of the species.

The fossils, first ever to be found in Michigan, were brought here by Professor Case, G. M. Ehlers and R. C. Hussey after the trio had found them in a stone quarry in the northern part of the state. It is believed the find consitutes the first of its kind in history and will prove to be of great scientific value.

According to the museum head they were salt water fish, which swam over the present state of Michigan and surrounding territory in the great indentations which at various times came from the Gulf of Mexico, the Arctic Ocean and the Pacific. From what data can be obtained the fish are said to have been heavily armed about the head with the rest of the body virtually unprotected.

Although no definite estimate can be made it is thought the fish reached a lenght of probably three and one half feet and old records show that in some cases they measured more than 30 feet. An attempt will be made to obtain a more complete collection of the pre-historic species.

AMERICAN COUNTESS SCORES COUNTRYWOMEN IN BOOK

PARIS, (UP)—Countess Alderbert de Chambrun, nee Clara Longworth of Cincinnati, sister of Speaker of the House, Nick Longworth, is hard on her American sisters in her latest novel, "Ring on Two Fingers," which she has written and just published in French.

The American-French author has done nothing to glorify American womanhood in her book. In fact she paints the heroine as a beautiful doll, with sawdust where her brains and emotional glands should be.

The moral of the book, if there is one, is that American women are not moulded to be perfect wives, and the husband must take time off to change them to his own ideas.

Rakish Old Rogue Portrayed Magnificently by Arliss

George Arliss in "Old English" at Sequoia Theatre For Three Days Starting Next Tuesday

George Arliss is coming in a new creation—"Old English"—a part which he considers the best characterization of his long career.

According to "Old English" independence is the most precious of all possessions. Proud and defiant of convention is the rakish old rascal that George Arliss has so adroitly transferred to the Vitaphone screen for Warner Brothers.

"Old English" is, however, very human, and in the hectic last three days of his life he lives in retrospect the eighty odd years of his not too virtuous life. Rogue, though he is, his stubborn fight for what he wants most and his zest for living find a reponsive echo in every human heart.

"Old English" will open next Tuesday at the Sequoia Theatre with George Arliss starring in the role he made famous on the stage. The supporting cast which includes Betty Lawford, Doris Lloyd, Leon Janney, Ivan Simpson and numerous others, adds to the interest of the production which is exceeding even the great "Disraeli" in popularity. Alfred E. Green directed.

"Old English" is the first John Galsworthy play to be offered on the talking screen, a concession on the part of that famous author to George Arliss, his fellow countryman and the dean of stage and screen stars and to the excellence of Warner Brothers and Vitaphone productions.

Mr. Arliss personally persuaded Mr. Galsworthy to allow him to use "Old English" for his third Vitaphone vehicle.

The supporting cast includes Leon Janney, Betty Lawford, Doris Lloyd and Ivan Simpson and others. Alfred E. Green directed.

Broadway And Side Streets

By JACK GAVER
United Press Drama Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (UP)—Jane Cowl is one of the more competen of American actresses, but too often she is to be found consorting with plays that wouldn't do credit to an amateur ingenue. Just now, however, she is to be found in a production of "Twelfth Night" at the Maxine Elliot Theatre and all is well.

Miss Cowl always has done well by Shakespeare and her present production gives both her and the Bard a break. Macgowan and Reed, the production, have assembled a superior supporting cast and the novelty of the presentation adds greatly to the interest.

The audience sees on the stage a large, upright imitation volume of "Twelfth Night." Feste, the Clowen, displays the title page and turns a new page for each new scene of the play. Two costumed supers arrange the props for each scene. There are no waits between scenes.

Miss Cowl plays Viola in a quiet, matter-of-fact manner, never obstrusive and never obscure. As always, her voice is her chief asset. Leon Quartermaine ,the English actor, is outstanding as the phohibitionist, Sir Toby Belch, receives excellent treatment from Walter Kingsford.

There have been a lot of theatrical crimes committed in the name of "Twelfth Night," but this production is not one of the crimes. It deserves to be patronized.

Practically any play in which Lenore Ulric appears is certain of some measure of success. This actress, has returned after an absence of a season in Hollywood in an inconsequential play named "Pagan Lady." As a bootlegger's mistress on the Florida coast, Miss Ulric has an opportunity to work her wiles on an impressionable young minister, only to meet with disappointment and to return to her gangster lover. "Pagan Lady" is in the manner of the memorable "Rain," but is not in the same class. William DuBois wrote it; Gensel and Green produced. The Lenore Ulric fans should see it; others should not.

$1000.00 PRIZE CONTEST!

WHO'S GOING TO GET THE MONEY ?

$100 First Prize; $50 Second Prize; $25 Third Prize; 25 prizes of $10 each; 95 prizes at $5 each; $1000 will be paid for the best letters descriptive of the merits of my Customer-Partnership Plan, divided in amounts as above stated, according to the ranking of the letters in the contest. The letters will be judged with the following points in mind: (a) Brevity; (b) Style; (c) Comprehensiveness.

No employee of our company, nor any employee of any newspaper, and no one whose residence is not in the bay district will be eligible to compete in this contest.

The contest will close at midnight, Saturday, November 15, and no letter will be considered unless it is postmarked prior to the closing time of the contest as above stated.

Everybody can't win, so let's all be good sports, and congratulate the ones who do win. Don't think ahead of time that you have no chance to win for it may be that you will win.

Anyhow we will all have a lot of fun trying to win for it's the game after all that counts more than the money, but just the same one hundred dollars is rather nice, too, to get for writing a letter about my Customer-Partnership Plan.

Announcement of the prize winners will be made in the Oakland newspapers on Tuesday, November 18, and paid on that date. Address your letter to Clarence Saunders, 4221 Horton Street, Oakland.
